SECTION L

TERMS OF REFERENCE/ SPECIFICATIONS

1.Introduction

South Africa, including the Province of KwaZulu Natal are required to drive an orchestrated modal shift strategy to address the increased dissatisfaction with passenger transport services. An inefficient passenger transport services is contributing to a rising car ownership and private car usage for commuting. Our inefficient passenger transport services are seen through the poor levels of reliability, predictability, comfort and safety. This negative situation is further exacerbated by the fragmented institutional governance of our passenger transport services.

Passenger transport services are not sustainable in the long run due to low profitability levels, unhealthy competition between the modes and the inappropriate use of modes along key corridors. This situation has resulted in poor passenger transport services, minimal investment in services, poor market perception and increased private vehicle use for commuting.

The National Development Plan (NDP) 2030, requires that passenger transport services become user-friendly, less environmentally damaging, more affordable, and integrated or seamless.

To improve the passenger transport system as well its affordability, appropriate modes for specific corridors should be utilised. Improving the passenger transport system also requires greater integration between passenger transport modes, reduction of competition between modes and the implementation of an integrated ticketing and information system between the various passenger transport modes.

2. Objective and Aim

The Purpose of this Bid is to solicit proposals from professional service providers with adequate skills, capacity, and experience to conduct a research to determine travel survey in the Province of KwaZulu Natal for a period of 3 years.

The focus of the research will be to collect data and information relevant for developing a modal shift strategy (from private to public transport) and for the attainment of integrated transport planning objectives. The collected data shall enable the Provincial Department of Transport, and other planning authorities (district and local municipalities) to fulfil their responsibilities with regards to the National Land Transport Act and related regulations. This include, but not limited to:

- Improving the use of public transport and reduce car dependence within the province;
- Improving the quality of public transport service given to commuters with regards to safety, affordability and accessibility;
- Integrating the various modes of public transport; and
- Developing frameworks and policies for economically and environmentally sustainable public transport.

The objective of this bid include, but not limited to:

- Review and update available data;
- Gain an accurate understanding of private transport and public transport usage, by mode, in the province; and
- Assess the challenges, limitations and needs for public transport in the province.

The successful respondents will be notified by letter issued by KZNDOT Supply Chain Management and advertised in the Tender bulletin.

The sample data will be aggregated to determine the travel survey at local, district and provincial levels. The study needs to:

- Determine the origins and destinations of strategic traffic zones by travel modes and by trip purpose;
- Determine the travel survey between the private, public transport by mode and non-motorized transport modes for work, education, health, welfare, recreation and other trips;
- Determine the levels of dissatisfaction with the different aspects of the transport system and for each mode of public transport with regard to travel times, costs, availability, accessibility, safety and reliability;
- Determine the average total travel times for each mode and trip purposes.
- Determine the walking distance and time from origin to first pickup, between interchanges and between the final stop and destination.
- Determine the waiting times for each public transport mode at origin and at interchanges.
- Determine the total cost per single/ round trip per mode and calculate the percentage expenditure of transport expenditure in relation to household income (Transport cost should ideally be less than 10% per household income).
- Determine the main trip purposes which require public transport services.
- Determine the main reasons for utilising or not utilising available public transport mode.

To accomplish this service provider will be expected to:

- Conduct site visits to assess public transport operations and identify suitable areas for data collection in each municipality;
- Identify and liaise with relevant stakeholders including local operators and authorities;
- Conduct questionnaires/interviews to determine preference and level of satisfaction with available modes; and
- Conduct field studies to determine demand, capacity and major routes in each municipality.
